When I have time, and feel in the hamor of writing, I will relate to you the whole circumstances of not only the Parriah marder, at Springville, in the sping of 1857, but of several others of equel atrocity and horror, as derived from coafession and evidence taken before the fine. Judge Cradlebaugh, in his desperation "in ready to seize hold of atything presented to him." Will some kind friend do us the favor to extend to him the hot end of a poker?
